Cassis, community celebrate Huron Valley-Sinai Hospital 20th anniversary

State Sen. Nancy Cassis on Monday joined Detroit Medical Center President and CEO Mike Duggan to celebrate Huron Valley-Sinai Hospital's 20th anniversary in Commerce, Michigan. Cassis presented a legislative tribute signed by herself, Gov. Jennifer Granholm and state Rep. David Law to hospital CEO Robert Yellin to commemorate the occasion.

"One of the major contributors to a community's quality of life is a first-class, full-service medical hospital like Huron Valley-Sinai," said Cassis, R-Novi. "We owe a tremendous debt to the people who had the vision to see two decades ago that this was a growing area and that its residents would need additional medical facilities for their health, safety and welfare."

In September, Cassis attended the emergency room expansion at Huron Valley-Sinai. The hospital has seen steady expansions and marked growth. Births at the hospital have risen from 49 in 1986 to 1,990 in 2005, and emergency department visits have increased from 8,745 to 34,253 over the same period.
